

SUPPLEMENTAL DATA

Supplemental Figure 1. Mammary outgrowths from wild type senescing populations are capable of forming lobules during pregnancy. Stained whole mounts from wild type outgrowths at parturition demonstrate ductal and lobule (A) and lobule-only (B) growth during pregnancy. Arrows denote lobule structures. Scale bars: 2mm left panels, 500 $\mu$ m right panels